

Chilliwack Law

Chilliwack Law - It is in the professional athlete's best interest to acquire legal assistance while constructing player contracts.

There are many similarities in the contracts of professional athletes and various careers which the lawyer would deal with everyday. Even if the majority of professionals are better represented by a third-party negotiator. Bonuses, salaries, in addition to any other conditions that are outlined in the player contract could generally be raised through skilled, forceful negotiation.

Normally, athletes are more concerned with touchdowns, home runs, and goals than they are with the fine nuances of negotiating contracts. Due to our knowledge and expertise regarding contract negotiation, our firm is proud to have some clients who are prominent professional athletes.